

WAR IS STEP FURTHER AWAY IN EUROPE

CAL REPROVES U. S. APATHY TOWARD LAWS

Says Nation's Need Is Not More Federal but Better Local Government

SCORES POLICE LAXITY

Criticizes Tendency of Authorities to Minimize Some Violations

Washington—Appealing for more vigilant enforcement of law on the part of states and local governments and for a "universal observance of the Constitution" by the American public, President Coolidge today at Arlington Cemetery declared that "what we need is not more Federal government, but better local government."

"We are not a lawless people," said the President, "but we are too frequently a careless one. The multiplicity of laws, the varied possibilities of appeal, the disposition to technicality in procedure, the delays and consequent expense of litigation which inevitably injure to the advantage of wealth and specialized ability—all these have been recounted as reproaches to us."

"It is strange that such laxities should persist in a time like the present, which is marked by a determined upward movement in behalf of social welfare. But they do exist. They demonstrate a need for better, prompt, less irksome and expensive administration of the laws for uniformity of procedure, for more accurate definition of state and federal authority."

Mr. Coolidge made only passing reference to prohibition, and did not apply his observation directly to any particular situation. Declaring that "when the local government unit evades its responsibility, it is started in the vicious way to disregard of law and laxity of living," he continued:

"The police force which is administered on the assumption that the violation of some laws may be ignored has started toward demoralization. The community which approves such administration is making dangerous concessions. There is no use disguising the fact that as a nation our attitude toward the prevention and punishment of crime needs more serious attention. The conclusion is inescapable that laxity of administration reacts upon public opinion, causing cynicism and loss of confidence in both law and its enforcement and therefore in its observance. The failure of local government has a demoralizing effect in every direction."

"There are vital issues, in which the nation greatly needs a revival of interest and concern. It is sometimes to be feared that when we find that to go so far as to go to the limit of the liberty to go ill-governed. It is time to take warning that neither the liberties we prize nor the system under which we claim them are safe while such conditions exist."

"We shall not correct admitted and grave defects if we hesitate to recognize them. We ought to be frank with ourselves. We ought to be our own harshest critics. We can afford to be, for in spite of everything we still have a balanced prosperity, of general welfare, of secure freedom, and of righteous purpose, that gives us assurance of leadership among the nations."

"Our country was conceived in the theory of local self-government. It has been developed by long practice to that wise and beneficent policy. It is the foundation principle of our system of liberty. It makes the largest promise to the freedom and development of the individual. Its preservation is worth all the effort and all the sacrifice that it may cost."

"It can not be denied that the present tendency is not in harmony with this spirit. The individual, instead of working out his own salvation and securing his own freedom by establishing his own economic and moral independence by his own industry and his own self-mastery, tends to throw himself on some vague influence which he denominates society and to hold that in some way responsible for the sufficiency of his support and the morality of his actions."

THE STORY OF THE DAY

DYING AVIATOR SAVES HIS PLANE

Stricken With Heart Disease, Airman Safely Lands Noted Passenger

By Associated Press
Washington—Pluck of Lieut. Teneyck Veeder, naval aviator in training, saved his plane and passenger safely to earth Friday after he had been seized with a heart attack which made him unconscious as the machine came to rest, is regarded as heroic by his flying companions here.

Lieut. Veeder collapsed in his seat as the plane, carrying Richard Barthelmess, movie actor halted at the end of the flight from Norfolk to Anacostia, near here. He died soon afterwards.

Barthelmess, a bit shaken upon realization of the tragedy which might have taken his own life and which produced a greater sensation than any movie thriller of his career declared Veeder had given the "finest exhibition of pluck and courage I have ever seen."

Lieut. John Stone, who accompanied Veeder in another plane, declared his companion just came in on his nerve, that's all.

As the airplane neared Anacostia, Barthelmess said, Veeder waved to the ground and the machine nosed down. It came to a perfect landing, but the engine continued running. The actor spoke to Veeder and when there was no reply he touched him. The pilot's head had fallen back and Barthelmess realized that he was ill. He summoned aid but the flyer died while naval physicians were trying to revive him. Death was ascribed to a heart attack, but the aviator's heart continued to beat after he had stopped breathing, doctors said.

COOLIDGE PAYS HIGH TRIBUTE TO VETERANS IN MEMORIAL DAY TALK

At the memorial exercises, Arlington National Cemetery, Saturday, May 30, 1925, at 1 p. m., President Coolidge spoke as follows:

For those who are the inheritors of a noble estate and a high place in the world, it is a good thing to pause at intervals and consider by what favor of fortune and of ancestry their lines have fallen in such pleasant places. Thus to meditate upon that course of events which has given them what they have and made them what they are, will tend to remind them how great is their debt and how little is their share of merit.

This is the day on which the American people each year acknowledge that they have such a debt. It has been set aside that a grateful Nation may do fitting honor to the memory of those who have made the greatest and most voluntary contribution to it. Here about us, in this place of beauty and reverence, lies the mortal dust of a noble host, to whom we have come to pay our tribute, as thousands of other like gatherings will do throughout our land. In their youth and strength, their love and loyalty, those who rest here gave to their country all that mortality can give.

For what? For the sacrifice we must give back the pledge of faith to all that they held dear, constantly renewed, constantly justified. Doing less would betray them and dishonor us. To such a memorial as exists here we can only come in a spirit of humility and of gratitude. We can not hope to repay these whom we are assembled to honor. They were moved by a noble conception of human possibilities and human destiny. They were an undertaking to find what they inspired and seek to make it our guide. By that they will be remembered.

These who are represented here were men in whom courage had reached a high moral quality. They had been brave enough not to shrink from looking at facts and institutions. They had been honest enough to admit that they saw there much that was not good. They grieved over no wrongs, they hid away no skeletons. They did not pretend that wrong was right or over could be right. They had put much thought to the lessons of hard experience, and had frankly acknowledged that they must deal with a crisis in the Nation's life. They were sure that union was a blessing, that slavery was a wrong, and that domestic war was the supreme human tragedy. This settled, they saw that one of three courses must be taken. They could have had peace with disunion, or they could have had peace and union, with slavery. Freedom with union, they saw at last, meant war. We know how they decided. We know at what fearful cost they supported their decision.

We live far enough away from those times of test and trial to know that sincerity and honesty did not all lie on either side. We know the conflicts of loyalties, traditions, ancestry, and interest which drew men to one side and the other. I don't if there ever was another so great and elemental a conflict from which men emerged with so much of bitterness and lingering hostility. The struggle brought the whole Nation at last to see that its only assurance was in unity. United, it could go its way in all security; divided, both sections becoming the prey of jealousy and intrigue, would have dissipated all the power they now have for good in the world.

Our generation has recently lived through times still so vivid as to seem but as yesterday, which have taught us deeply to appreciate the value of union in purpose and effort. We have come to see as through a crystal that in the national variety of talents and resources, of cultures and capacities, of climates and of soils, of occupations and of interests, lies the guaranty of both our power and our authority. More than that, they have taught us how heavy and important is our responsibility in the world.

Conscious of a strength which removes us from either fear or truculence, satisfied with dominions and resources which free us from lust of territory or empire, we see that our highest interest will be promoted by the prosperity and progress of our neighbors. We recognize that what has been accomplished here has largely been due to the capacity of our people for efficient cooperation. We shall continue prosperous at home and helpful abroad, as we shall maintain and continually adapt to changing conditions the system under which we have come thus far. I mean our Federal system, distributing powers and responsibilities between the States and the National Government. For that is the greatest American contribution to the organization of government over great populations and wide areas. It is the essence of practical administration for a nation placed as ours is. It has become so commonplace to us, and a pattern by so many other peoples, that we do not always realize how great an innovation it was when first formulated, and how great the practical problems which its operation involves. Because of my conviction that some of these problems are at this time in need of deeper consideration, I shall take this occasion to try to turn the public mind in that direction.

When dealing with the distribution of powers between the General Government and the States, Chief Justice Marshall declared: "When the American people created a national legislature with certain powers, it was neither necessary nor proper to define the powers reserved by the States. Those powers, proceeding from the people of America, but from the people of the several States, and remain after the adoption of the Constitution what they were before, except so far as they may be abridged by the instrument."

WEEKS WON'T GET ANOTHER BIG WAR PURSE

Secretary of War Almost Resigned Rather Than Accede to Economy

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright by Post Pub. Co.

Washington—Behind the instruction of President Coolidge to the army and navy departments to make a survey as to further economies lies a story of conflict between the budget director and the secretary of war. It is the first serious difference between the advice of a cabinet officer and that of the budget director, the one looking at it from the viewpoint of what experts consider military efficiency and the other regarding it as a question of economy.

The present secretary of war, John W. Weeks threatened resignation if his viewpoint was not accepted. Mr. Coolidge acceded to Mr. Weeks' wishes and the items in the proposed estimate last winter were retained. Now Mr. Weeks is in ill health and probably will resign before another budget is sent to congress. The new secretary of war, whoever he is, will have to fall in with the president's economy program. For the same issue is now involved in the requested survey for further economies.

STAFF BACKED HIM
But behind Mr. Weeks was the general staff including Gen. Pershing all of whom thought the cuts in the military establishment were beyond public safety in this era of international uncertainty. The war department has looked askance at the president's economy program fearing that it might be carried too far. Mr. Weeks did not print his controversy to the public prints but waged it in private.

FOUGHT QUIETLY
The general staff is, of course, restrained from differing with the president or the budget director in the press. There is also a strict rule by which all officials of the government are bound, namely that they must not seek higher appropriations when testifying before congressional committees, though they are permitted to answer questions from which legislators may draw their own opinions as to whether the budget proposed is safe from the viewpoint of national defense.

Mr. Coolidge is not represented as differing with the argument of those who think the objective should be efficient national defense but he has been insistent that economy should be practiced wherever possible and he naturally leans on the judgment of the budget director, Gen. Lord who knows something about army matters and also is interested in government economy.

It will be several months before the whole thing will be threshed out in congress but already the order to look for further cuts is causing uneasiness in the army particularly.

Trusts In State Must Watch Out For Ekern

By Associated Press
Madison—Anti-trust activities in Wisconsin will continue without restriction, Attorney General Herman Ekern said Saturday in connection with the passage by the legislature of the $50,000 annual appropriation for his department. The appropriation bill goes to the governor as a result of assembly concurrence in it. The special fund of $10,000 annually for "trust-busting" is abolished under the bill, although the sum is to be used for the prosecution of any cases that might be developed as a result of his investigations.

Memorial Day Is Proof U. S. Is Grateful--Keller

Memorial day gives assurance "that a noble deed done in a noble cause becomes immortalized in the life of an observing nation," L. Hugo Keller, commander of the Wisconsin department of the American legion, declared in a statement issued here Saturday. Mr. Keller said Memorial day gives an opportunity for appreciation to those who have been served and it proclaims the country's gratitude for service and sacrifice.

Commander Keller's Memorial day statement follows:

"Memorial day bespeaks the character of a nation. It tells the story of a nation's soul. It proclaims with an eloquence born not of words but of deeds, a country's gratitude for service and sacrifice and suffering. It gives assurance that a noble deed done in a noble cause becomes immortalized in the life of an observing Nation. It brings happiness to those who have served. It gives an opportunity for appreciation to those who have been served and to the younger generation it furnished the inspiration that will find expression in many a deed done for a country much loved."

NATION PAYS ITS RESPECT TO HERO DEAD

Coolidge Speaks at Grave of Unknown Soldier, Wreath Laid on Potomac

By Associated Press
Washington—The national Memorial day tribute to the men and women who died in its service centered Saturday in Washington, with President Coolidge leading the exercises in Arlington national cemetery at the tomb of the unknown soldier.

Touched by the solemnity of the occasion thousands of Washingtonians and visitors gathered in the amphitheatre to hear the president's address.

Assigned to honor places in the assemblage were survivors of some of the wars that claimed the thousands resting beneath the rows of tombstones dotting the surrounding hillsides and now colorful with flowers and bunting.

Associations of veterans of the various conflicts arranged to hold services for their own dead before the presidential party arrived at the cemetery.

A huge anchor of poppies was prepared aboard the U. S. S. Sylph for lowering into the Potomac river as additional tribute to the navy's dead, lost on the high seas. Memorial exercises also were arranged aboard the U. S. S. Gampus.

Servants of the nation now resting in other cemeteries throughout the city were remembered by relatives and descendants who joined the veterans societies in paying respects.

CHICKENS WEREN'T ALL THEY HAD STOLEN

SENATE LINES FOR FIGHT ON NEW FISH BILL

Senator Sauthoff, Kicks Because Conservation Commission Doesn't Get All Game Fees

Madison—Announcement by Senator Harry Sauthoff in the state senate that several amendments would be offered to the administration conservation commission appropriation bill when it comes up for consideration next week, forecasts a determined opposition to the measure. The principal objection to the bill as voiced by the senator, is that the appropriation does not turn over to the commission for conservation purposes all of the money it earns.

Another objection is to the repayment by the commission to the state general fund, approximately $800,000 "principal and interest on land investment." Repayment is spread over an eleven year period, according to the bill. It is the contention of the administration, and explained in the veto message of Governor Blaine to the conservation bill introduced several months ago, that as a matter of justice this money should be returned to the state treasury. This is believed to be a condition precedent to an ultimate consent by the state administration to turning all of the money earned by the commission back into the conservation fund for conservation purposes.

The vetoed bill received a majority vote in the senate for passage over the objections of the governor but failed of a two-thirds majority of the members present.

Senator Sauthoff led the recent fight for what he termed an adequate appropriation. At the time he announced he would bring suit in the state supreme court to compel an accrue one every dollar earned by the conservation commission, and to sue to have all of it turned over to the commission for the purposes of conservation.

Senator Elva F. Garey, is the administration spokesman in support of the new bill.

DARING YOUNGSTERS ENDED UP IN HOSPITAL

Then Gerald jumped. When he hit the bottom Chester was writing in pain, his right leg hanging limply. Chester felt of his hip. It was cut deeply, and his jaw was broken for he had fallen on his face. Young Armbruster's leg was broken.

Both boys are in the hospital.

Few Minor Points Need to Be Cleared Up Before Document Is Sent to Berlin

By Associated Press

Potsdam.—The French and British governments have reached an accord on all essential points concerning the western European security pact proposed by Germany. It was stated in official circles Saturday.

The British note to the French government detailing the British attitude, delivered Friday by Lord Curzon, the British ambassador, marks great progress toward the point where actual negotiations of the pact itself may begin, officials believe.

A few minor points remain to be threshed out in Franco-British negotiations before the French reply to the German security pact proposal will be sent to Berlin. However, if the optimism prevailing Saturday at the French foreign office is fully justified, active negotiations may be expected within a month or six weeks.

BID $34,000 ON JUNIOR SCHOOL

Eighteen Contractors Submit Bids for Fourth Ward School Addition

Eighteen bids on the Fourth district junior high school were opened by the board of public works Friday afternoon, and the lowest possible total was found to be approximately $34,000 for the building, plumbing, electric wiring, heating and ventilating. There were eight bids on the construction of the shell, four on the plumbing, four on the wiring and two on the heating and ventilating plants.

The building plans and specifications were drawn up by the Smith and Brandt Co. They provide for a 2-story colonial style brick addition to the present Fourth ward school, on a concrete foundation. The addition will be 35 by 80 feet and will be erected on the west side of the old building.

There will be two classrooms on each floor, with locker rooms and toilets for boys and girls on separate floors.

LOPEZ IDENTIFICATION CASE IS NEARING END

By Associated Press
Minneapolis—The Arthur Lopez-Frazier identification case probably will go to the jury in federal court here Tuesday or Wednesday. It was indicated Saturday.

The government neared the end of its long list of witnesses in its effort to prove that the plaintiff, who seeks war compensation, is not the man he claims to be—Arthur Frazier—but is a Mexican impostor by the name of Arthur Lopez. At the conclusion of Friday's session court was adjourned until Monday afternoon to enable the jurors, many of whom live out of town, and others connected with the case, to enjoy a double holiday.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL TO OPEN TERM ON MONDAY

First Congregational Church
Offers Summer Instruction in Religion

The Daily Vacation Bible school of First Congregational church will be opened June 1 and will continue for four weeks for children of the primary and junior grades. The purpose of the vacation school is to provide a program of recreation and interesting studies to keep the children from getting restless with the ordinary routine of three months vacation. It is the aim of the teachers to give the children organized service and supervised play, which they do not get during the school year.

The program includes a worship period each day. Lives of authors will be studied, new hymns will be sung and stories told about how they originated. Indoor and outdoor games will furnish recreation and a handwork period in which children will sew, paste, make open-saw toys, baskets, scrapbooks and posters will be made. Each child will be more useful. Missionary and Bible stories will be dramatized and a class period for drill in memory work of each department will be provided. Among the outdoor sports are field trips, hikes, picnics and swimming for older boys and girls. The toys and other articles made by the children will be used to fill Christmas baskets for foreign missions.

The children are enrolling quite rapidly and those wishing to join are asked to notify Miss Mary Stevens at the church office.

STAGE HIT GOOD VEHICLE FOR VIR- GINIA VALLI

Entertainment of a double fold is afforded in Virginia Valli's latest starring vehicle, "Up the Ladder," the Universal-Jewel feature at the Elite theatre today and Sunday.

Not only is the picture a tremendous melodrama of the trust water, but it affords for the first time the use, pictorially, of the television phone, a yet unperfected invention which allows one to actually see the person to whom one is speaking over the telephone.

"Up the Ladder" is the smashing stage play of the same name from the pen of Owen Davis, considered by many to be the father of modern melodrama. It tells the story of an ambition realized only to be depreciated through infidelity on the part of the husband.

The theme of "Up the Ladder" deals with the life story of an unselfish woman, played by Virginia Valli, who suffers self denial in order that she may boost her husband, Forrest Stanley, to the heights of fame and fortune.

TEARLE STARS WITH BARBARA LA MARR

Another musical comedy favorite has forsaken the footlights for the screen. He is Clifton Webb who, until recently, was one of Broadway's most popular comedians.

The meeting will be of special importance because an outline for the year's work will be made and the report on the endowment fund drive will be heard.

Women Who Have Found Driving a Tiring, Joyless Task—now are turning to the car which makes driving a delightful, thrilling, healthful pastime.

Hundreds of women who find driving ordinary cars an unpleasant task, have turned or are turning to the Chrysler Six.

Hundreds of others who had actually given up driving because they found it too difficult, too nerve straining, have discovered that driving a Chrysler Six is a delightful pastime.

Hundreds of young women and girls—those whose pride is smartness, beauty, and alertness—are preferring the Chrysler to all other cars. In the most exclusive private schools, in the Junior League, in the smartest social groups, one Chrysler sells another—a growing preference that makes the youthful and red-blooded everywhere, aspire to Chrysler ownership.

Because of its ease of control—which women everywhere assure us is entirely unequaled—women have, in a special sense, made the Chrysler Six their car.

Never, say women who have driven it, has there been a car so easy to handle as the Chrysler Six.

It is extraordinarily convenient to manipulate into the average city parking space.

Of course, the unique delight which comes to a Chrysler Six owner every time she or he takes the wheel, is due not to a few features—but to every feature of this remarkably engineered car.

Every woman who loves driving but finds it a task should be delighted to learn the vast difference of driving the Chrysler Six. We are eager to send a car to your door for a demonstration, yourself at the wheel if you wish to experience the newest thrill in motoring.

Riding ease and roadability based on gross tonnage, extreme wheel base and generous springs, are costly and inconvenient luxuries.

The Chrysler Six is comparatively light in weight for economy and easy handling.

It combines roominess with compactness to afford easy parking. It rides as solidly as a two-ton car; it takes the bumps as easily as the ordinary Leviathans of the road.

And wherever the Chrysler goes all women admire its grace and beauty, and envy the delighted possessor of so smart a vehicle.

CLARION IS CREDIT TO HIGH SCHOOL EDITORS

For the first time in the history of Appleton high school the Clarion, annual high school publication, appears this year in stiff covers, and its contents are worthy of the improvement in appearance and makeup. The book is divided into six sections devoted to administration, classes, honors, athletics and sports, and general interest. It is dedicated to Lee C. Rasey in gratitude for his help in speeding the class of 1924-1925 on its way through life. There is a profusion of good illustrations. The frontispiece is a full page picture of Mr. Rasey and a few pages further back is a view of Appleton high school followed by several camera studies of scenes on the lower Fox river. Decorations and cartoons are cleverly done. The decorations are in violet and black. Every member of the faculty and with very few exceptions the members of all classes are portrayed in photographs, artistically arranged throughout the book. Snapshots showing incidents of interest to various groups and to the student body in general are profuse, and "captions," known to graduates of a score of classes as snippets of the locker room, is not forgotten. Athletic activities are given a prominent place in the publication, but forensics, dramatics and other branches of school practice also are well represented. No activity has been forgotten.

COUNCIL SELECTS TYPES OF PAVEMENT

The action of the city council Thursday evening in the selection of the types of pavement to be laid in Appleton this year is another step in the 1925 paving program. It would appear that the types selected for the several streets were the best that could be chosen under the circumstances. Of course not all of the property owners living on these streets will be satisfied. It is an impossible task for the council to please all, and we believe that their action in practically ignoring the several petitions which were presented is to be commended. The fact that several property owners had signed petitions for more than one type of pavement indicates the fallacy of recognizing such petitions. The council was, no doubt, in a better position to judge the type of pavement best suited for the various streets than the property owners themselves. Members of the council have given the matter long and careful study and should be well qualified to make the selections.

The selection of reinforced concrete for Cherry and Richmond streets should prove satisfactory. It should be a strong and durable pavement for those streets which are to take care of much of the heavy traffic of future Appleton. This choice, too, will meet with the approval of the county highway committee and the county board, which, in granting county aid, designated a concrete pavement for these streets. There should be no doubt about the approval of the state highway commission, which, under the state law, must also pass and approve the type of pavement selected for streets receiving county aid.

On the whole, we think the council has acted wisely. We believe it has shown good judgment and has started on a paving program that when finished will prove a source of pride to our citizens.

MEMORIAL DAY

The Memorial Day duty of paying tribute to the nation's heroic dead has been transferred from the aged veterans of the Civil war to the youthful participants in the World war. Properly this duty devolves upon the youth of the land rather than the older people, for it was young men who saved the Union and those of a later generation that saved civilization from the threat of Prussian despotism.

Before 1917 it was difficult for the younger people to visualize the "Boys of '61" when viewing the remnants of the once mighty armies of Grant and Sherman, but those armies were composed of the flower of the nation's youth, just as the armies which crossed the sea to France over half a century later comprised the nation's best young men. It is honor to the valor and sacrifices of youth that we pay today and it is fitting that men and women of like ages in all the years to come carry on the custom originated by the survivors of the Civil war and discharged as a duty by the Grand Army of the Republic. With the lapse of time and the settled state of peace that so happily had come to our land, Memorial Day had, before the outbreak of the war in Europe, largely degenerated into a time of sport and merrymaking, its significance being all but forgotten save by Civil war veterans and others of their generation. The youth of today realizes that in honoring the memories of the youth that served, we pay also a tribute of respect to the youth of the future that is the country's reliance for defense.

There is a close connection between the Grand Army of the Republic and the American Legion. In point of service, spirit, idealism, they are the same. Each has been its country's defender in time of need. Each stands for that Americanism without which this country would long since have fallen a victim to its foes both within and without. They both represent that citizenship upon which this nation is absolutely dependent for its future security, freedom and progress. All that is crucial history in American life is typified in the Grand Army of the Republic and the American Legion. With them in their performance, and what they signify, everything in our national life becomes of the deepest significance; without them, of no significance.

AUTOMOBILE CHANGES

When the automobile "gear shift" was invented, everybody regarded it as a temporary makeshift, to be discarded as soon as somebody devised something better. Instead, it has remained one of the few permanencies in motor transport.

Now comes Walter Brown of Ohio, who is not accustomed to speaking carelessly, and claims that a newly devised direct electric drive is a practical success. On a vast scale, to drive great battleships, the electric drive has demonstrated its convenience and efficiency. If it should turn out to be feasible on an automobile scale, it would be one of the few fundamental improvements in the motor car. It would leave "nothing to watch but the road." But don't discard your old car yet, nor hesitate to buy a new one. These things do not happen in a moment.

Even "the road" is enough to watch. Taxicab companies are employing psychologists, to test their drivers, in intelligence, alertness, quickness and accuracy of response, steadiness, courage, responsibility and character.

Tests for street car motormen are less exacting, but adequate to the job. You know that your motorman is physically sound, steady, sober, attentive, honest and responsible. Otherwise, he would not have the job.

But the highways are full of private motorists who have not these qualifications. Some of them can not see or hear signals; many are stupid, nervous, flighty or irresponsible; some of them are insane, or liable to drop dead with apoplexy or heart disease; many of them drink, some of them take drugs, and a lot of them do not care.

Not one of these could get a job as street car motorman, still less as driver for a responsible cab company. But, because they have the price of a car, we license them to navigate the highways—where they kill more Americans every year than the Germans killed during the World War.

AN ASSOCIATION OF NATIONS

The prime minister of South Africa explains that the objection of his people to the further granting of titles of nobility among them is not democratic squeamishness as to the titles themselves, but opposition to the imposition of a "foreign" system on them.

If this keeps up, throughout the British Empire, Sinn Fein, in Ireland, may as well shut up shop. By merely keeping automatic pace with the rest of the dominions, its aspirations will be realized without the trouble of fighting for them.

The past decade has seen a peaceful revolution characteristically British in its indefinability. There have been no Declarations of Independence, and there is nothing which a lawyer would call independence; yet the dominions are increasingly independent.

What was once the empire has become an association of free nations, bound by ties of little more than tradition and sentiment. If they were Frenchmen, they would insist on a logical definition, and if they were lawyer-ridden Americans, they would have to have a written document, for courts to construe.

Being British, they let it do itself, and do not inquire whether it is either logical or consistent.

We got down late today. The alarm clock rang but we decided maybe it was the wrong number.

ALL KINDS OF DISEASE

I notice, a certain number of readers write from time to time (and it makes me tearing mad) that you give me advice about all kinds of disease and so I thought I would drop a few lines (paraphrasing) and see what you think about my case. And then follows a harrowing recitation of all kinds of symptoms. And as I say, I am feeling pretty mad and I just carelessly permit the automatic chucker to close the incident or else I tell 'em as politely as one can tell 'em on the whole plan that my best advice to people who are "handled" like that is that they consult a physician. Then somebody else gets mad: That's why I haven't been so liberal with this advice lately. I found it was driving a considerable number of its recipients into anonymity, and goodness knows the chucker is worked to capacity without overloading it with twaddle.

Just how or where these observant readers "notice" that I give advice about "all kinds of disease" I haven't the least idea. It certainly isn't in this department of mine in the paper. Can it be that they have this department mixed up with something else? At any rate, the one thing I am glad to give advice about almost anything else but, is a reader's individual case. That is a medical problem, to be submitted to the individual's own physician—or to the corner cop or the neighbors if the reader prefers. It does not come within my province and neither here nor by correspondence do I ever offer medical advice. Questions which come under the head of "Health or Hygiene," or "How to Keep Well," I am glad to answer to the best of my ability and with the aid of many experts and authorities available to me. Even medical questions which do not require a consideration of the diagnosis—such as a doctor can make only by a personal examination—or of the treatment—which a doctor can intelligently advise, suggest or prescribe only when he has made a personal diagnosis—I am glad to answer whenever I think I can give an answer which is likely to do no harm and possibly some good. No squeamishness about medical ethics has anything to do with this policy. If I believed that a doctor could obtain a reasonably accurate understanding of the diagnosis of an individual case through correspondence, I should hesitate to advise, or prescribe treatment for correspondents—whatever treatment I deemed necessary, whether medical or nonmedical.

In spite of much earnest effort to avoid the very thing which these observant correspondents would have me, namely, the unwholesome and unhealthy sin of discussing "all kinds of diseases," for a lay audience, now and then something slips in here which I feel ashamed of. As a rule it is something a correspondent says in a letter and I print the offending lines without considering as carefully as I should the treatment of the item. I acknowledge as I should whether any reader is likely to get a many mistakes like that, and I am sorry they have happened. Rather than give any reader or correspondent altogether or pretend I never received it, I ponder a morbid suggestion I would ignore the I'd rather lie like that than answer such a question as this: "Is—there is the name of some disease or maybe an operation—serious?" that is, if by any chance I really think the disease or operation is serious.

This department is a health center for the distribution of good cheer, good health and good sense. "All kinds of diseases," are barred. But if you're interested in any kind of health, I'll be glad to hear from you, as briefly as possible, of course.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The North Pole Myth

You stated recently that a certain amount of such food is necessary to sustain life. What I want to know is where do the esquimaux obtain such food? (R. R.)

Answer—From plants which grow in the polar summer season. Another mystery you might grapple with is where do the esquimaux reindeer get their fodder? Wholesalers and commission merchants around here do not ship any to the polar region. (Copyright National Newspaper Service.)

TOO BUSY TO DINE WITH PRESIDENT

Westerner's Breach of Etiquette Didn't Turn Coolidge Against Him

From Forbes Magazine.

President Coolidge has just had one experience different from any he ever had since he entered the White house. He invited a genial, breezy westerner to the White house for lunch, mentioning the day. An invitation from the president of the United States is, of course, always regarded as a command, to be accepted and acted upon without fail.

What must have been President Coolidge's astonishment when this westerner told him he was sorry he would not be able to come as he had a business engagement that particular day? Nor did it help the situation very much when the westerner asked the president that, if he would make it some other day that was convenient, he would be very glad to come.

There have been presidents who would have taken grave offense at such conduct. President Coolidge, whatever he may have felt, smiled graciously and remarked that he still hoped to have the pleasure of dining with his visitor at some future time. When the westerner told some of his friends about the incident, they were dumfounded. They upbraided him that he had been guilty of an inexcusable breach of White house etiquette and that the president probably would never forgive him.

Within a week, however, along came another invitation from President Coolidge. This time the westerner accepted and was there.

CURVED BALL ONCE CONSIDERED A FAKE

A. Russell Bond, in St. Nicholas.

An important incident occurred away back in the early history of baseball, just after the Civil war. There was in those days a remarkable pitcher named Arthur Cummings, a member of the Brooklyn Stars. "Candy" Cummings, as he was familiarly known, threw a mean ball. It had the most disconcerting way of starting straight for the opposing batter, as if it would bore right through him, and just as the alarmed batter jumped out of the way it would scuttle back across the plate—a fair strike. No one had seen a pitched ball curve before that.

In fact, "Candy" himself made his discovery quite by accident. He tried putting a spin on the ball so that it would glance off the bat and would not allow a fair hit. Then, much to his surprise, he found that the spinning ball had a decided curve.

When he told his friends about it they refused to believe him. So he took them out to the field to show them how he could throw a twister, but, as so often happens when we try to show off, the ball wouldn't curve. Although "Candy" was unable to throw a curve that day, he stuck at it and, after some practice, learned the twist of the wrist that would make the ball curve.

It wasn't science that discovered how to curve a baseball; in fact, certain college professors were inclined to think at first that it was all an optical illusion. Finally, a test was arranged at Yale university. Three posts were set up, and a pitcher was invited to throw an in-shoot which would pass to the right of the first post, to the left of the second and to the right of the third one. After several tries he succeeded, and that settled all doubts.

PUBLIC GIVES MUCH THOUGHT TO TAX DODGING

Biggest U. S. Problem Is to Bring Down Levies on Incomes of Wealthy

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Washington, D. C.—There probably never was a time in the history of the United States, since the days before the War of the American Revolution, when there was such wide-spread interest in the subject of taxation. It will be remembered that there were one of the principal causes of the rebellion of the colonies against the British crown—the rebellion which ended in political revolution which was the foundation of the world's greatest republic.

Taxes affect the destinies of a people tremendously. Ways and means of levying and collecting taxes are more ingenious and subtle than they used to be, but an effort constantly is being made to improve them.

CUT OUT WINDOWS

In the early days in England a tax was imposed by the crown on windows. The owner of a house had to pay a given sum for every window. This had a direct effect on the architecture of the country. Buildings were erected with as few windows as possible and one still may find vestiges of them throughout England. The tax finally was removed and it was like the release of a spring. Architecture went to the other extreme and we find in the Elizabethan period houses the walls of which were filled with vast, many-paned windows. The great oriel windows and bow windows—some of them two stories high—brought floods of light into buildings which for years had been darkened by taxes.

Income taxes are much lower this year than they have been for a long time. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and other leaders, including President Coolidge, want still greater reduction. The married man with a $3,000 income now is paying only half of what he paid a year ago. Last year the man with $5,000 paid $75. This year he pays $37.50 less. Last year the man with $10,000 income paid $300. This year he pays $150 less.

Further reductions on such incomes are planned, but Secretary Mellon is making his greatest drive to bring down the taxes on larger incomes and to abolish or greatly reduce the inheritance tax.

Those in favor of high taxes on big incomes are also strongly in favor of very high taxes on inheritances. They claim that an heir who is receiving something for nothing should be willing to pay over a good deal to the government.

BUSINESS DISCOURAGED

The other side of the question—the side on which Mr. Mellon is aligned—contends that to tax the incomes of big business men discourages business. If a man knows that if he makes more than a moderate amount, the government will take a large percentage away, he will not be so eager to make an effort to produce. This will mean slower business with less people employed.

The government will get less from the rich man perhaps nothing at all from others who otherwise would have been profitably employed and themselves paying tax.

In the case of estate or inheritance taxes, the position taken is that if a man knows that at his death nearly half of his estate will be confiscated by the government he will not labor so diligently to add to the wealth of his family.

Q. Are the "Bad Lands" of South Dakota considered a desert region? C. L.

A. They can not strictly speaking be classed as a desert region. The term is somewhat misleading, as the land is fertile except where it is so steep that vegetation is washed off. In level portions buffalo grass grows and supports great herds of cattle. Good water is usually found in shallow wells and considerable farming is carried on.

Q. What does the Persian "Mirza" mean? E. C.

A. It is the equivalent of "Prince".

Q. Who was "Captain Cuttle"? C. D.

A. He was character in Dickens' "Dombey and Son". He was a retired merchant with a hook in place of a right hand.

Q. How long has cricket been played in England? S. H. L.

A. These are some evidences of a similar game having been played in the 14th century, but it is probable the earliest was not known until some time in the 16th century.

Q. Is the "daddy-long-legs" a fly or a spider? M. L.

A. In America the name is applied to the harvest-spider, a harmless insect having legs containing more than fifty joints each. In England, however, "daddy-long-legs" is applied to the crane fly, a true fly having legs.

Q. How old is Cyrus Curtis? A. H. B.

A. Cyrus H. K. Curtis was born in 1850, and will be 75 years old in June.

Q. How long will a "permanent" or "natural" magnet retain its magnetic properties? J. S.

A. The life of a magnet can not be predicted exactly. If properly cared for it will last for years.

Q. Was there a President who would have been elected unanimously, but for one vote? A. W.

A. James Monroe received all but one of the electoral votes in 1820. An elector from New Hampshire voted for John Q. Adams in order that no President other than George Washington should have the honor of receiving a unanimous vote.

Q. Why is the combined circulation of women's magazines? F. D.

A. It amounts to 15,000,000.

Q. How many people go to the movies? E. L. V.

A. It has been estimated that about one-fifth of the population of the United States attends the movies each day. The amount of admission in a single year totaled $906,000,000.

Q. Are there many college "truants" in Sing Sing, N. Y.?

A. Warden Lawes states that of the 13,012 inmates there are but five college graduates.

Q. What chance takes place when white bread is toasted? A. O. P.

A. When white bread is toasted, the starch is being converted into dextrines being the intermediate product between starch and sugar. Production of sugar also takes place.

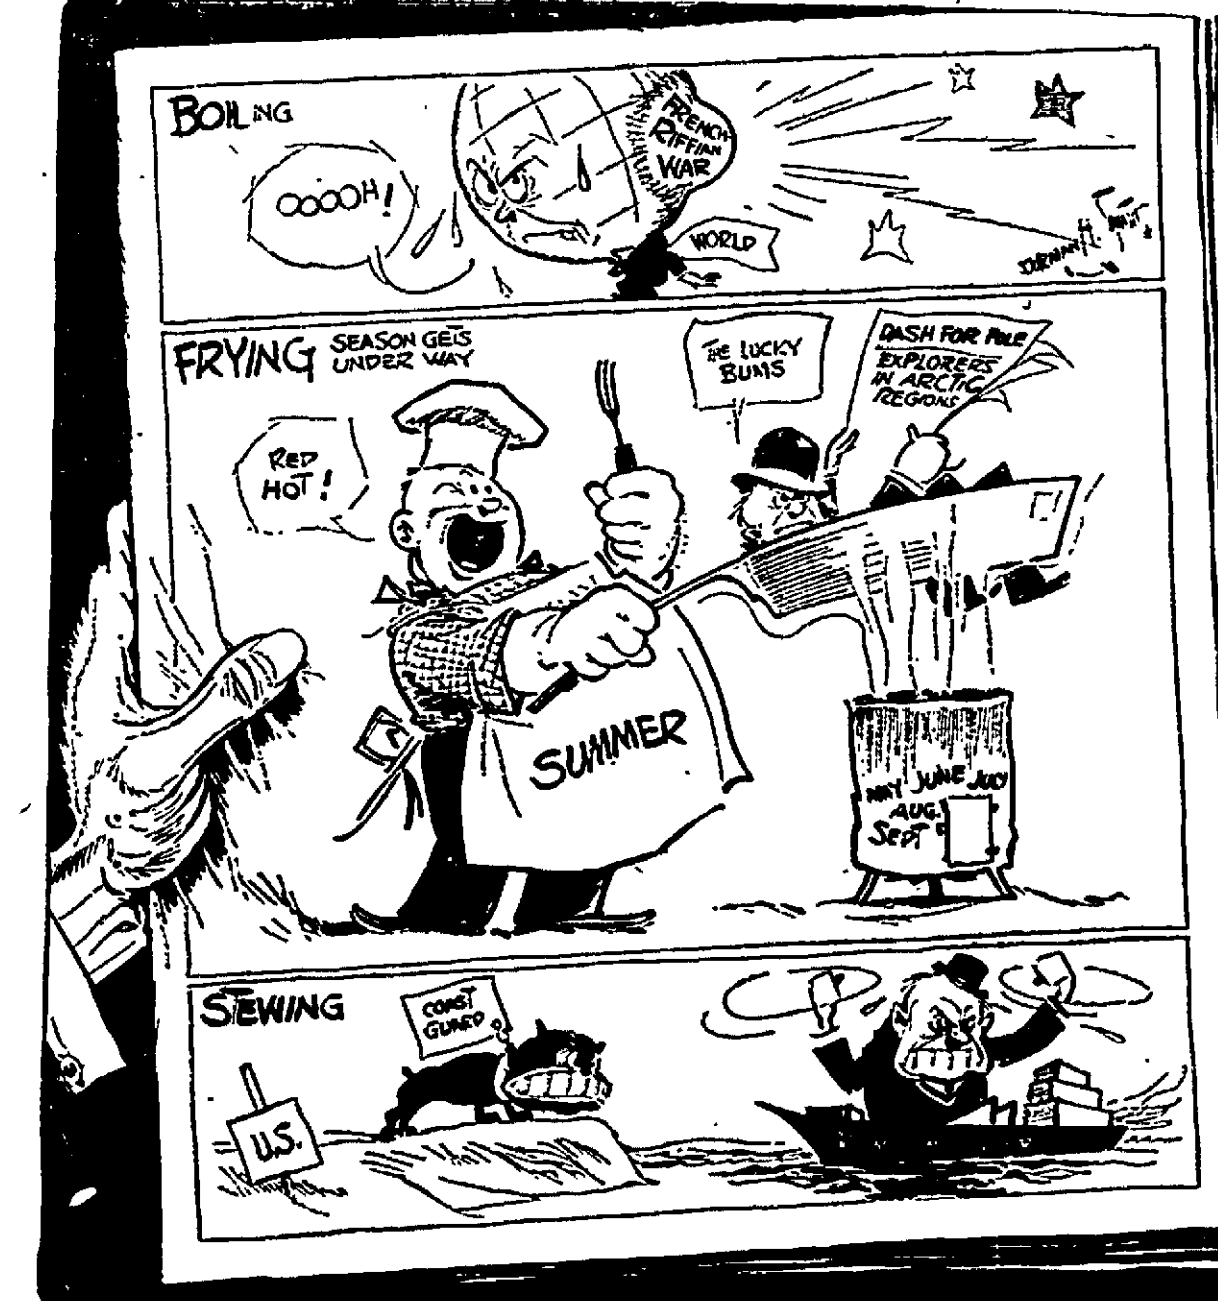

Q. Why aren't grasshoppers as much of a pest as they were formerly? W. H. A.

A. The early history of the New England States affords numerous records of the invasions by grasshoppers upon the crops of the settlers. During the period 1742 to 1754 a great scourge of these hungry insects occurred in Maine, and other outbreaks occurred in Vermont during the years 1757 to 1758. When agriculture began to be established generally in the Great Plains region of the United States, lying west of the Mississippi River and east of the Rocky Mountains, during the decade 1870-1880 a migratory species of grasshopper, commonly known as the Rocky Mountain locust, frequently swept down from its breeding grounds on the benches of the mountain range in such great swarms as to destroy practically all cultivated crops over vast areas of country, reducing thousands of families almost to starvation. As the settlement of the Rocky Mountain region progressed and the breeding grounds of this destructive insect came under the influence of cultivation these outbreaks ceased. Thus, there has not been a serious general outbreak of the Rocky Mountain locust since 1880, and this particular grasshopper has ceased to be a pest of any great importance.

Q. Where was Fort Stanwix? A. J. G.

A. Fort Stanwix was located in New York on the Mohawk River where the present city of Rome is situated.

ADDRESSES MISSING FROM 7 LETTERS, CARDS

"Dear Sister" will wait a long time for word from "Leone," and "Mother" probably is wondering why "Tillie" doesn't write, because Leone and Tillie forgot to write addresses on the post cards they intended to reach home this weekend. Leone's disappearance probably will be a great relief to the trouble of putting a special delivery stamp on her post card.

Several cards and letters without addresses were held at the post office this week. According to postal authorities here, this is about the weekly average, and apparently most of the cards and letters are sent by college students from out of town. The best remedy for such cases is to write a return address on every piece of mail sent out, according to H. J. Franck, assistant postmaster.

VISIT GRAVES OF WAR'S VETERANS

Quiet Observance of Memorial Day in Kaukauna This Year

Kaukauna—Memorial day was to be observed very quietly in this city. The American Legion, in charge of the day's program, made arrangements to form a procession to visit the cemeteries of the city to decorate the graves of war heroes. The procession started about 8 o'clock this morning. Efforts to provide an afternoon meeting with appropriate speeches and songs have proven so unsuccessful during the last few years that the idea has been abandoned entirely.

Members of the Grand Army of the Republic, Women's Relief Corps and Ladies Auxiliary to the legion were included in the program of the morning. Ladies Auxiliary formed a fine line squad with Ernest Sasnowski as commanding officer, and fired salutes following the services at each cemetery.

The local merchants have taken all available space as usual in the regular weekly program. Last year merchants kept their places of business open in the evening previous to the concert. This will probably be done again for the convenience of the public, especially for those who live at a distance.

Director Charles T. Carroll has the following engaged to date: Tympane, Reel Holm; drums, Snor Kurkowski and Louis Rasmussen; piccolo and flute, Harold Rief; cornets, Frank Spanbauer, Thomas Temple and Harry Gherke; clarinets, R. TEST OUT SIREN

During Thursday afternoon the new siren to be sounded at times of fire screeched forth in a tryout. A firm at Stevens Point has installed this alarm on a 60-day trial and judging from the noise made during the test through the afternoon the entire population of the city will be able to hear an alarm any time anywhere in the city. Many volunteer firemen living within three blocks of the fire house have been unable to hear the sound of the old fire bell.

Awards in the many contests held by rural school children at the big field day at Waupaca Friday will be many and may be announced soon. Contests of all kinds were conducted by the county superintendent of schools and assistants. The literary, arithmetic, spelling, writing, silent reading, vocabulary and dictionary contests took place in the morning. Athletic contests were conducted throughout the day at South park and the declamatory contest was held in the evening at Palace theatre.

Commencement exercises at which 250 rural school graduates received diplomas were held at the Palace at 4:30. George Dick, state inspector from the department of public instruction, delivered an address. All day rural people crowded the streets of the downtown district, enjoying opportunity to be with the young people for the event.

POTATOES STILL HIGH

The potato market which took a sharp advance on Thursday to the peak price of the season of $1.25 was maintaining that advance on Friday afternoon. One buyer stated he thought the market top heavy and was at a loss as to know what to say, any more than that the future price would depend upon the amount in the hands of the grower and weather conditions.

Waupaca opened the baseball season Saturday afternoon at Penny Athletic park, west of the city. Manawa, with the Roman brothers as battery, enlivened the locals, who were to try out three pitchers, Hoffman, Madison and Smith, with Wood behind the plate.

Two veterans of other Waupaca teams will play again in the person of "Old Man" Shambau and Buss Pope. Wood, engaged to catch, is a former Lawrence college man.

Chickering

JONAS CHICKERING has been justly called "The Father of the Modern Piano," for in 1837 he perfected his epoch making invention of the full iron plate for grand pianos.

This invention proved to be the foundation of all modern piano construction and defined a new era in the history of piano-making.

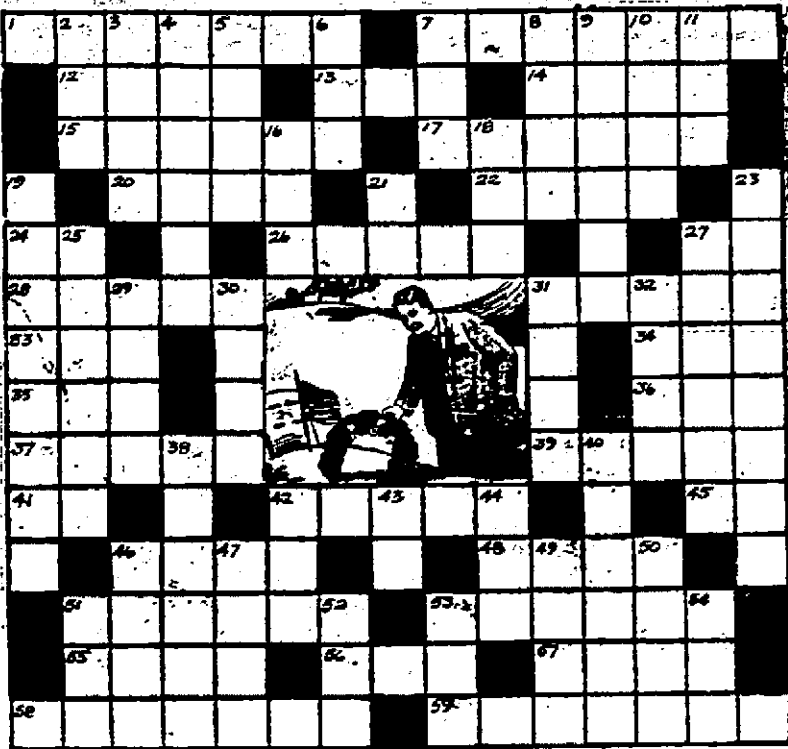

Through the full century of its triumphant career, the Chickering has been chosen by the most famous musicians as the medium for their genius. Such great artists as Dohnanyi, Lhevinne, Mirovitch and Schnitzer use the Chickering not only for their concert work but also in their homes. They find in the smaller sizes the same rare qualities of tone that charm them in the Concert Grand.

Chickering prices from $975 to $2500.

HE BEAT NURMI

ALLAN HELEFRICH

Here's the famous Penn State runner, who accomplished a feat that no other American athlete has been able to put over—beat the great Paavo Nurmi from scratch. Helefrich turned the trick in a special, half-mile race at New York the other day, leading the Flying Finn by 10 yards. Ted Meredith's record of 1:52.15 for the distance, was not broken, however.

Baseball Simplified

By Billy Evans

What are the rights of the catcher or an infielder in blocking a base in an effort to retire the runner? What are the rights of the base runner?

If the catcher or any other infielder has the ball in his possession before the baserunner reaches his objective, the fielder has a perfect right to block the path of the runner as he sees fit in an effort to make sure the out.

The baserunner is not restricted as to the methods he may employ in an effort to overcome the blocking tactics of the man with the ball. A certain code of sportsmanship, however, is usually followed by the runner when he realizes the fielder is awaiting his arrival with the ball.

If the catcher or any other infielder making a play at a certain base has not the ball in his possession, he has no right to block the path of the runner in an effort to handicap him until the ball arrives. For such an offense the umpire should grant the baserunner the base that was blocked by the fielder, whether or not the out was made.

Aged Tris Speaker Beats Youths In Batting Race

By Associated Press

Chicago—Traveling at a pace which nine years ago made him champion batter of the American League, Tris Speaker, gray-thatched leader of the Cleveland Indians, today is back in that coveted spot with the enviable average of .465.

Ty Cobb, who seemingly is playing as brilliantly as ever, is challenging Speaker for the leadership. The famed Georgian is batting .385, giving him a tie with the youthful Earl Combs of the Yankees, who led the pace a week ago. The figures are based on averages including Wednesday's games.

Since the Tigers have taken a brace, Cobb has locked himself into a tie with Marty McManus of the Browns for the scoring honor. Each has registered 22 times.

Ken Williams of the Browns is leading in total bases with 59, his 54 blows including 16 doubles, 1 triple and nine home runs.

Bob Meusel, slugging outfielder of the Yankees, tagging two homers during the week, cracked the tie shared with Ken Williams a week ago. Meusel now has ten homers.

Johnny Mostil, White Sox fly chaser, continues to set the pace among the base stealers with 16 thefts.

Other leading batters, for 20 or more games: Simmons, Philadelphia, .358; Slater, St. Louis, .355; Wingo, Detroit, .352; Burns, Cleveland, .347; Hellmuth, Detroit, .344; Vachon, Boston, .342; Boone, Boston, .335.

Cracking out eleven hits in his last six games Earl Smith, catcher of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has swept to the top of the National League batters with a mark of .407.

Smith, one of the most consistent players in the League, has seen service in practically all the games. The Pirates have played this season, his longest season, with a five-point edge over Hawks, young first baseman of the Phillies, who slumped after leading the procession a week ago with an average of .429. Today, Hawks is the runner-up with .420, closely pressed by Dave Bancroft, leader of the Braves, who is hitting an even .400.

Hornshy of the Cardinals and Four-nite of the Dodgers, are keeping close on the heels of the top liners. Four-nite is fourth with .382 and Hornshy is tied with Barnhart of the Pirates at .381.

The veteran Zack Wheat of the Dodgers is showing the players how to cross the plate, having registered thirty-four times, Glenn Wright of the Pirates in collecting 48 hits. His batting average is .385. His blows include eight doubles, four triples and seven homers.

Gaby Hartnett of the Cubs increased his lead for the home run honors to 12, by connecting with a brace of four baggers.

Max Carey of the Pirates has tied Sparky Adams of the Cubs for the stolen base honors. Each has pilfered nine.

Other leading batters: Rottmeier, St. Louis, .371; Wright, Pittsburgh, .367; Sigler, New York, .355; Wheat, Brooklyn, .354; Steck, Brooklyn, .354.

FOX RIVER SQUAD ADDS STRENGTH FOR NEW LEAGUE

Dutch Sylvester and Doc Kolb to Don. Papermaker Suits for 1925 Season

Realizing the need of a stronger team than he now has in the field for independent ball, Manager C. O. Baetz, of the Fox River Paper Co. team of the new Eastern Wisconsin Baseball League, is taking steps to organize one of the classiest teams in the new loop.

Harry "Dutch" Sylvester, Appleton's contribution to big league ball, is one of the latest additions to the Papermakers outfit and will hold down an outfield berth. His batting ability which still ranks him with players of the Wisconsin State League, as well as his "wise baseball head" will make him invaluable in the Papermaker attack and in standing and teaching the team. "Doc" Kolb, a graduate of Marquette university, who is starting his practice here, has been engaged as a coach. Kolb took a bad financial loss at Reedsburg last year and gave it a state-wide reputation in less than two months. His old mates play the Pails at Monasha Wednesday.

Manager Baetz still seeks a pitcher or two of first-class league caliber to bolster his two-man staff. The remainder of the Papermaker crew is about able to stand the gauntlet and may remain the same, Manager Baetz said. He has one of the smooth-working infielders in the valley. Goshua at second and Schultz at third are both crack semi-pros. Al plays a great game at his sack and "Cully" has a pretty chip to the initial base. Ted Van Wyk and Bayer at first play good ball and C. Turnow at short is the slugger of the team batting well over .400.

Manager Baetz, Radtke and Klundt are the present outfielders. All are heavy sluggers, especially Klundt. For mound duty, the Papermakers have H. Turnow and Refke. Turnow, veteran of dozens of local industrial league and state semi-pro battles, probably is the best pitcher in the valley and one of the best semi-pro hurlers in the state. Refke, a youngster, is inexperienced but has one of the sweetest curves seen around these parts in some time. With a little coaching by Sylvester and Kolb, enabling him to stay cool and work better in a pinch, he should be one of the best youngsters in the new loop.

OYLYMPIC STARS IN BIG EASTERN MEET

It is expected that at least 18 Olympic stars will compete in the eastern intercollegiate this season. Among them is "Bud" Houser, sensational weight man from California. Houser hopes to hang up new marks in the discus and shot-putting events.

Woodman Picks Langford As Greatest Heavy Boxer

BY JOE WILLIAMS

New York—Mr. Joe Woodman, one of the old school of cauliflowerdom, has a new heavyweight, a square-jawed, gold-tusked gent, who answers to the royal name of King Solomon. The king is a product of the Canal Zone of knocking in Panama and recently made his debut in the states, against a third-rater in Cleveland, one Mike Wallace. The King did not look any too hot to this writer.

Mr. Woodman did not expect that he would. "The King is just a prospect," he opined. "I don't know whether he will ever be worth a dime or not. I like the way he steps around and the way he uses his left. If we can teach him to use his right he may have a chance."

It is hard to get Mr. Woodman to enthuse over modern fighters. Any other manager would have tried to convince you the King was on his way to the heavyweight championship. But Mr. Woodman is not exactly that type.

When you've spent 18 years of your life watching a bird like Sam Langford fight it's kind of hard to get excited over a heavyweight whose only visible qualifications are restricted to two tin ears and a split upper lip.

Woodman had Langford from the beginning and was his manager until the Boston tar baby got tired of fighting and hung up the mitts. "I think he was the greatest fighter of his size the world ever saw," Woodman says. "I think he would have beaten any man you have in the ring today."

"You mean his size?" we asked. "I'm including Dempsey, if that's what you are leading to," amplified Woodman.

"Langford was at his best against the rushing type fighter. His boxing and his ability to drop a man with a short blow made him very dangerous."

"You think then he might have whipped Dempsey?" "I'm pretty sure of it, Dempsey just happens to be the type that would be easiest for Langford. There were few rushing fighters in Langford's day. The rushers came with Dempsey's victory. He set the style as a matter of record."

Woodman says Langford couldn't punch a hole through a yard of chiffon his first three years in the game. He was just a fast, clever light tap-per. Langford wasn't much of a success as a boxer and decisions frequently went against him, much to the tar baby's displeasure.

"I was operating a drug store in those days," relates Woodman. "One night Sam called me by phone. 'Mr. Woodman I ain't going to have any more trouble with referees,' he said. I answered that that was a sensible attitude because he could gain nothing arguing with the ring officials. 'I ain't going to need a referee any more,' continued Sam. 'I'm going to knock everybody out from now on.'"

It is a matter of record that when Langford did start knocking 'em over his success in that detail was frequent and emphatic. Incidentally, Langford is now in Chicago doing odd chores around Howard Carr's gymnasium.

AFTER TITLE

KING SOLOMON

You've all heard of King Solomon of old-well, here's a present-day chap by the same name. This fellow's a pugilist, heavyweight champion of Central and South America. He's seeking bouts with Gibbons, Wills and some of the rest of the top-notchers. He has got his eyes on the world title.

4 MIDWEST GRID GAMES ON BLUES 1925 SCHEDULE

Coe to Be First Conference Foe of Lawrence Squad on New Whiting Field

Coach Mark Catlin's 1925 Lawrence college football team will meet Coe college of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, in the first Midwest Conference game for schedule adopted at the meeting of athletic directors of conference colleges at Hamline university, St. Paul, Thursday evening. The game will be played on Oct. 17 at Appleton. A. C. Denny, director of athletics at the local school, was the Lawrence representative at the meeting, which was the Blues next fall, according to the held in conjunction with the Midwest Conference track and field meet on Friday.

Four Midwest games of major importance, three of which are to be played on the new Whiting field, were booked by Denny. With three state battles tentatively arranged, Lawrence has a fine 1925 card. The tentative card follows: Sept. 26 St. Norbert's college at Appleton; Oct. 3, Open; Oct. 10, Lawrence vs. Northwestern at Watertown; Oct. 17 Coe college at Appleton; Oct. 24, Ripon college at Appleton (homecoming); Oct. 31, Lawrence vs. Hamline university at St. Paul; Nov. 6, Lawrence vs. Carroll at Waukesha; Nov. 13 Beloit at Appleton.

Officers elected for the coming year were Prof. Boutwell, Beloit, president; Prof. Ryder, Hamline, vice president; Prof. Bryant, Coe, secretary and treasurer. A discussion on the 1926 basketball schedule brought out the fact that Lawrence will play ten Midwest Conference games and two with Carroll. The complete basketball schedule of each school, the freshman rule question and a method of settling conference championships will be decided on at the fall meeting.

Some high school is going to get a valuable track athlete if results count for anything and Seymour high probably will be the lucky school. In the county field meet held here Friday a youngster by the name of Art Noack of North Seymour school, was individual point winner, taking the 100-yard dash and broad jump. In the sprint he tore off a mark of 11 seconds flat, a good mark for many high school sprinters. In the broad jump he scored 15 feet, showing no form whatsoever. With a little work in these events, he should make the dash in under 11 seconds and should go well over 15 feet in the jump.

Dave's Dots And Dashes

A few knockers got the surprise of their lives in the playing of old King Lear of Kenosha this week. The old boy was thought to be about through and had been used mostly as a pinch hitter. Playing against Racine in a Easter game he broke a 1-1 tie in the ninth inning by clouting a homer with a man on base. He got two hits in three attempts during the afternoon. The game was a hurling duel between Norman Pitt, old Midwest League ace, and Jimmy Baxter.

The entrance of the Fox River Paper Co. into real league ball should be a job to local fans. This is their

PAILS MAY DROP WEDNESDAY GAME WITH REEDSBURG

New League Ruling Bars Buck Weaver from Competing With Loop Players

The Menasha-Neshan Pails of the Wisconsin State League will not play the strong Reedsburg team Wednesday afternoon if Buck Weaver remains in the down-state lineup. Magistrates of the league at a meeting this week, agreed not to play any team which had blacklisted players in the lineup and Weaver comes under this ban. However, the Pail management is going ahead with plans for the game and it will be played at 5:15 Wednesday afternoon, if Weaver is not on the field.

Manager Pierce said this on the subject, "Recognizing as we do the wonderful ability of Buck Weaver, we regret very much that he is barred from the league as there is as great a infielder as there is in the world but he is barred by organized baseball and though many fans believe him innocent the ruling is made and we must abide by it. Weaver as manager of the Reedsburg club has won a home with the fans and they insist that he be retained, but Reedsburg will be forced to cancel a number of games if he stays because of the league ruling. While Weaver is a big help to his club, his loss should not be great as it is very strong even without Buck."

Word comes from the Kellogg team to the effect that the club has gotten off to a fine start, losing only four of eighteen games played this season. The team plays on an average of four games per week, which takes a real team to stand the strain, especially on road trips. Rusch has only been beaten once this season so that a stellar exhibition should result when he works against the Pails on Sunday, June 7.

As Kenosha is played the day before, either Gould or Llewellyn will be used against the Kelloggs, who in making a tour of the west and playing its strongest teams, have three games scheduled for the week.

league, or otherwise, is worth. The locals will use Brandt park.

And look at the teams in the loop! Appleton fans will have the opportunity of seeing the best in state opportunity to come through and show that they are real sports. The Fox River crew has added two stars and every player is a home boy, which alone should make the team worthy of support. The new loop has cut expenses to nearly nothing, so that the admission price to games will be less than what any ball game.

LAFAYETTE HAS STAR ATHLETE IN ALLEN

New York—Allen of Lafayette is quite a versatile athlete, as was shown in the recent dual meet with Rutgers.

Allen came through with four firsts, being the highest individual point-scorer of the affair. He capped both hurdle events, the high jump and the javelin throw. His best performance was in the low barriers, which he negotiated in 23 3-10 seconds. He cleared 5 feet, 11 inches in the high jump, heaved the javelin 150 feet and turned the high hurdles in 14 2-10. He could have possibly bettered some of his records had he been pushed.

RAY CASEY LOOKS LIKE TENNIS STAR

Great things are expected of Ray Casey, sensational Californian, on the tennis courts this season. After showing his wares in the east recently, critics predict a bright future for him. He'll compete in the international matches at Wimbledon, England, next month.

When Better Automobiles Are Built, Buick Will Build Them

No. 15

Question: Why is a Buick so safe and so easy to steer?

Answer: Because of Buick's wonderful steering mechanism. It is the most expensive type now installed on any motor car—and worth the difference because it adds to Buick performance still another point of superiority.

U. S. BANKS IN SPLENDID SHAPE, BABSON REPORTS

Prober Finds Financial Institutions Are in Condition for Big Business

Babson Park, Mass.—An investigation has been in process at Babson park the past week in relation to the financial situation, especially in connection with the condition of the banks. The result of this study is much more optimistic than it even was first contemplated. Eliminating the statistics from the report, the principal conclusions are as follows: "The Federal Reserve System is functioning now better than at any time since its inception. Practically all of the larger banks, and many of the smaller ones, are now members of the System. A splendid group of men make up the Federal Reserve Board, and so long as Calvin Coolidge is President, we may be sure that high grade men will continue in control. As a result, the banks of the country, taken as a whole, are in a very strong position, with larger reserves than at any previous time when the country had the present amount of business. There are still a few banks in the West which are struggling, but even these are in a better position than they have been since the War. The United States has about two-thirds of the total gold supply of the world and is strengthening its position as an international banking power. Therefore sufficient cash and credit is today available for all legitimate enterprises—that is to say, there is a plentiful supply of money.

"While this supply is large, there has not been a corresponding increase in demand for funds by the large borrowers. Both railroads and industrial concerns have been paying large sums back into their properties, reducing floating indebtedness and gradually strengthening their financial position. Many of the large corporations are today loaners of money, rather than borrowers; and some have unconsciously become huge banking companies as well as engaged in the manufacture of steel, electrical machinery or automobiles. Hence, the large concerns are not in need of funds as was the case some years ago. Furthermore, the decline in commodities reduces the amount of money necessary for a corporation or an individual to borrow in order to carry a given stock of raw material or merchandise. The recent drop in the price of wool naturally hurts people with a large supply of wool on hand, but in the long run it eases the borrowing requirements all along the line. With the price of wool only half of what it was a while back, woolen mills are obliged to borrow only half of what they formerly were obliged to borrow in order to carry their stock of raw materials of merchandise. There are certain commodities, such as rubber, which have gone up in price and there are others, like the building materials, which have held their own, but the average of all commodities has gradually been declining ever since the War.

"Even if commodity prices were at their former high figure, it today would not be necessary to carry the large commodity stocks as formerly. The very much improved transportation conditions have made it unnecessary for manufacturers to keep on hand so large a supply of raw materials or for merchants to carry such full lines of goods. Both raw materials and manufactured goods can be secured now by jobbers and retailers on a few days' notice. This tends to relieve further the financial situation and reduce further the current demand for money. The great demand for money is either for new promotions or for large capital investments in new building, water power and other public utility developments. Banks naturally shy at new promotions and thus their greatest opportunity to loan money today with safety is to the public utilities. This is largely done in the form of bond buying, and it is possible that the banks will continue to be in the market for some time to come, for good bonds. I therefore expect a continued active bond market during the balance of this year at least.

"Although what has happened in Europe during the past month is not pleasing to many people, yet this should tend to strengthen rather than hurt the financial situation. They are having a bad time in France, but fundamental conditions are better in France today than they have been for some years. France has no new troubles, but has simply reached a point where she is recognizing that she has troubles—that is, she is pulling her head out of the sand and seeing conditions

Drop In Material Prices Is Big Aid To Industry

BY JOHN T. FLYNN

New York—The outstanding business phenomena now observable may be summed up as follows:
1. A decline in the price of raw materials, thus decreasing the spread between raw materials and manufactured goods and tending to correct that maladjustment in industry.
2. A decrease in speculative business.
3. A slight tendency toward tightening in money.
4. A slight decrease in the business curve.

The latter statement I base on the authority of the Harvard University Business School. I do not by any means adopt it. I am not at all sure that the business curve is based on the right factors. But I include it here for what it is worth.

In March the index of raw material prices declined sharply. Semi-finished materials on the average also declined, but not so much as raw materials. Finished goods showed only a slight change and were but little below the average for the last five months.

"Preliminary April data give reason to believe that the relative lag in prices of the last year has continued. These facts indicate that important progress has been made toward relieving one of the great maladjustments of the present price structure. Raw materials (including ore, coke, pig iron, wool, etc., have long been high in comparison with semi-finished and finished commodities (general manufactured goods, not specifically iron and steel). This condition was particularly bad in 1922 and in the early part of this year, has been one of the most serious difficulties in the way of satisfactory earnings on the part of manufacturers of finished goods.

The ratio of semi-finished goods to raw materials is now the lowest since last December, and the ratio of finished goods to raw materials is back to a level about the same as the average of the last year and a half. Semi-finished or "producer's" goods (including semi-finished steel, building materials, heavy chemicals, yarns, etc.) are now relatively low and it seems reasonable to conclude that as they exist. The Von Hindenburg victory is naturally repulsive to us, but an analysis of the situation shows that Von Hindenburg represents the conservative interest in Germany. His election shows that Germany is really at heart a conservative nation. There is no doubt but that the credit of Germany is far better with a conservative autocrat like Von Hindenburg as President than with a young radical whose name might be much more popular. Employment conditions in England may not be helped much at the present time by England going into a gold basis; but it means that Great Britain has successfully passed one more hurdle and is gradually reaching her goal. Surely this accomplishment will help her credit tremendously as it shows that the British are no quitters, but are willing to play the game, take their medicine and pay their bills without complaining. Now that England has gone back to the gold standard, it means that about 30% of the world's trade is again on a gold basis, which is a very encouraging situation. Thus, not only is the banking situation in the United States in a very strong position, but the financial situation abroad is rapidly improving. I believe that President Coolidge will, during the next few months, call a conference of some sort which will still further clarify the European financial situation.

"Another thing which we hear little commented upon but which seems to us very important, is the entrance of labor unions into the banking field. Of course this was started from no love for the financial interests in the United States. The first labor bank of prominence was started by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers in Cleveland as a direct attack on the banking interests of the country who were supposed to be hand-in-glove with the railroad owners. This bank had only been in existence a little while before it was obliged to purchase railroad securities the same as other institutions. At that time, on, it became more and more involved as a holder of railroad and other securities and is now being operated very little differently from the average Cleveland financial institution. Being the first and alone in its field, it has grown quite rapidly and been a success. This bank has been followed by other labor banks in New York, Boston and various cities. The last new bank of this sort has just been opened in Philadelphia and is known as the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers Title and Trust Company. It doubtless will do very well. Like every other good thing, success develops competition. Hence the other unions are now following the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. For instance, the American Flint Glass Workers Union has decided to form a bank in Toledo. The Amalgamated Clothing Workers are organizing a bank for Philadelphia, and other groups of workers are organizing banks elsewhere. I believe this is a splendid thing for the financial interests of America. It will result in teaching labor a side of the labor problem which it has never before realized, and it will throw a large portion of labor's influence to the conservative side of American life. Of course, these banks should not be started more rapidly than men can be trained to handle them successfully. Like every other good thing, they can be overdone. On the other hand, it is good to have a certain number of them started and have all of the large unions interested in financial institutions of their own.

"Those who are acquainted with the early industrial history of England remember that the guilds were originally organized as sort of 'unions' for the workers, but as the workers became more prosperous, these guilds ultimately developed into employers' associations and became very conservative. Then conditions remained in status quo for many years without any labor disturbances until working conditions became so intolerable that the present trade union movement had its inception. Many believe that history is today repeating itself and that the Trade Union movement has seen its most radical days and from now on will become more and more conservative as its leaders gradually become interested in banking and finance. If so, this means that labor conditions may remain quiescent for awhile until the new communistic or bolshevistic movement develops further and the younger and newer radicals get into power. There always has been a struggle between those who have and those who have not and there always will be—in fact the world wouldn't be much good unless there was such a struggle in process. On the other hand, this conflict has always swung like a pendulum from one side to the other and at the present time the pendulum is just about midway in its arc. Present indications are that it is liable to stay quiescent for some months at least. From the way the Babson chart is working, which is now at 2 per cent below normal, it looks as if general business would remain balanced also, with no violent movement in either direction." The price of bituminous coal in April showed the lowest average in years. It is believed that coal prices are at rock bottom for the season. Clearly the general trend of building costs has been downward since the middle of 1923. The month of April showed a continued decline. In April the cost of constructing a cement factory was about 3.5 per cent less than at the 1923 peak, while the cost of a frame dwelling was approximately 5.3 per cent less.

The foregoing data are of interest as bearing on the general subject of expense for additions, betterments, and repairs to buildings. They also have a broader significance in connection with the question of building supply and rents.

As the nation catches up with its long postponed building program, there should be a continuation of the tendency toward lower costs of construction and lower rents, which would constitute another step in the direction of remedying one of the great economic maladjustments which followed the war.

377 MILLS REPORT GAIN IN BUSINESS DURING WEEK

A gain in new business was reported by 377 of the principal softwood mills during the week ended May 16 their orders equalling their production, while shipments were 38 percent of it. Low prices still make for unsatisfactory conditions, but in the trade the opinion seems to be gaining strength, says the American Lumberman, Chicago, that as the mills become adjusted to quicker transportation and smaller retail stocks, they will refrain from forcing lumber on the market faster than it can go into consumption.

The southern pine mills had orders for 2 and one-third percent more than they produced, but transit cars from smaller mills have had a weakening influence, and have caused slight de-

IMPROVEMENT IN STEEL MARKET IN MAY OVER APRIL

Increase in Buying Considered Improvement in Iron and Steel Business

Cleveland, Ohio—Iron Trade Review says: Incoming steel business in May has run ahead of April with some tendency to keep on increasing, but the tonnage is not yet up to the level of shipments. Unfilled orders, consequently, are undergoing continuing shrinkage and production is subject to some further readjustments. The better side of this situation comes from the fact that new buying again is becoming more diversified and frequent. While still essentially of a hand-to-mouth character, it is spread over many sources in which fresh demands seem to be originating with well-sustained regularity.

The industry appears to be having difficulty in keeping itself above the 70 per cent mark in operations. The Steel Corporation is on this basis in ingot operations, but its finishing mills are 80 per cent engaged. Chicago has dropped several points to 87 per cent of ingot capacity. Pittsburgh is down to 55 per cent average. The Youngstown district continues at 70 per cent.

The buying movement in pig iron still is under way and has attained impressive proportions. Since May first, sales easily have run above 500,000 tons. The past week has brought out many new inquiries and at least 150,000 tons of new sales. Prices are still soft though showing more firmness in some quarters.

A possible anthracite coal strike is being seized upon by coke makers to induce buyers to cover their requirements for third and fourth quarters. Oil trade demands for steel for tanks, refineries and barges have come into greater prominence. The Standard Oil Co., of Louisiana placed 4,000 tons for barges, the Humble Oil Co., 6,000 tons for stills and tanks, while 7500 tons for tanks is up at Chicago. Another important barge award by a West Virginia coal company accounts for 4800 tons.

The Ougre-Martha works in Belgium has sold 5000 tons of special shapes to New York but foreign selling to American buyers has been less in evidence. The Standard Oil Co., of New Jersey has denied it has placed 1,000,000 boxes of tin plate with Welsh makers though the latter have taken an order for 500,000 boxes of oil plate, according to Iron Trade Review weekly market cable.

April imports fell 11,249 tons. Exports were 15,426 tons against 153,336 tons in March.

Formation of a European steel alliance to include makers in France, Germany and also Great Britain again is being agitated abroad. Paris reports active negotiations are under way.

Some weakness in pig iron and semi-finished material has forced Iron Trade Review weekly composite of fourteen leading iron and steel products to 53.04 for the fourteenth straight decline.

Prices in common boards and dimension, though upper grades and such items as flooring are fairly firm. The west Coast mills booked orders for 16 percent more than they cut, but their operations are curtailed, for foreign business is still lacking and domestic prices have declined to an unprofitable level. Coast cutting schedules are planned for a shutdown, and mill stocks are being reduced. Many logging camps are now idle, and each week others are closing down, and will probably remain inactive during the period of fire hazard, or until about September. Retailers and industrial users are placing only small orders for softwoods, and it is unlikely there will be much change in their policy until good crop returns are assured, and curtailed lumber production results in a general upward movement of prices.

Total hardwood demand from the large industrial consuming groups is of fair proportions and has been increasing. The southern producers are less aggressive in their offerings, while inquiries being received by them and by northern operators show some increase. Though prices are still low, market developments indicate that the mills may soon be able to secure better returns.
